Dear FDA representative: It is very important that our foods contain labels which tell how it is grown and processed. We have had dangerous effects from past lack of information, such as known carcinogenic pesticides on food which cannot be washed off. I buy organic fruits, vegetables and dairy products for my family. I want to know how our food is being treated. This is an age where consumers demand to be informed. Even scientists are wary of irradiated food. Please give us labels which specify irradiated food AND genetically altered produce. Debbi Roldan.
